

O Is for Obedience

When you are obedient you not only listen to instructions, you follow through as well.

Your parents and those who care for you are helping you to build positive habits and to learn right from wrong. Sometimes you may not understand why you have to do something, or you may rather do it at another time, but following through on what you're asked to do is a way you show your love and respect.

Put it into action:

The next time your parents ask you to do something, do it as quickly and as well as you can!
