

Do your part

Ants are amazing little creatures, and they know how to work hard. Ants live in a system of large underground tunnels called a colony. All the ants do their part so there is enough food to eat, the larvae are cared for, new tunnels are dug, and the colony is kept clean. Every ant plays an important role within the colony that keeps things running well.

You too have a part to play in your home, and it takes diligence and teamwork to keep things running smoothly. Do your best to carry out your responsibilities well by following through on instructions, completing your chores properly, picking up after yourself, and being helpful whenever you are asked.

When you do your best to work together to get things done, everything goes better.
