

WORKING TOGETHER

Did you know that many insects and animals work together to build their homes and gather food? In a hive, each bee has a role, such as gathering nectar to make honey or caring for the larvae. Ants also work together to build their colony, find food, and keep their colony clean.

Working together in harmony is the best way to get things done. The next time you are having a hard time working well together, remember that like with the bees in the hive, each one has something to contribute. Together you might get more done, and together you will do a better job, too!

*Authored by Shanna Landon. Illustrated by Didier Martin.
Colored and designed by Roy Evans.
Published by My Wonder Studio.
Copyright © 2018 by The Family International*

